Correct inappropriate shifts in person.

I always order an extra large salad, but you get a really small salad every time! I have tried to explain my problem, but you just can't make the server understand. I finally figured out the solution—you just have to point to the right-sized bowl!

My friend Ann has a problem, too. In that restaurant, you can't order things that aren't on the menu. Ann wanted cooked spinach, but you couldn't get it. I even spoke to the manager, but you still couldn't get it. I guess sometimes you just have to know when to give up!
